What's in store for 2016?

City Manager Rick Cole, others reflect on goals for new year

BY DAILY PRESS STAFF

The calendar year is drawing to a close, and 2016 is around the corner. For many, the final days of December are a time for reflecting on past accomplishments and crafting resolutions for future goals and commitments.

Will you seek a career promotion? Take up a new hobby? Travel to a place you've never explored before? Make a new friend? Shed a few pounds? Volunteer for a charity?

The Daily Press asked public officials and other community leaders to share their thoughts on what they're hoping to see in the new year. The following is a sampling of their responses:

'GETTING THINGS DONE'

Daily Press: What was your most significant event of 2015 and why?

Rick Cole, Santa Monica's city manager: I believe the unanimous vote by the City Council on October 13 to shift from project-by-project development negotiations marks a promising new opportunity for Santa Monica. With unanimous adoption of the citywide zoning code in June, we can ensure future development is guided by a consistent, transparent and coherent framework once we complete work on the Downtown Community Plan.

DP: What do you hope the New Year holds for you?

RC: Getting things done. Expo, the Colorado Esplanade and the California Incline will open. Beginning with the adoption of the minimum wage, 2016 will be a year when Santa Monica continues to lead in creating a model city that works for everyone.

FOCUS ON FAMILY

Daily Press: What do you hope the New Year holds for you?

City Councilmember Ted Winterer: My main resolution for 2016 is to be more wholly present with my wife and kids. I'm aware that too often when they're trying to converse with me, I'm preoccupied with my day job or Council matters and thus am guilty of not giving them my undivided attention, which they very much deserve. I need to learn to set aside my worries when I walk in the front door of our home and to fully engage with my family.

'Force Awakens' becomes fastest movie to $1 billion

BY SANDY COHEN

AP Entertainment Writer

LOS ANGELES — "Star Wars: The Force Awakens" has reached $1 billion at the box office, achieving the milestone with record-setting hyper speed.

The Walt Disney Co. said "The Force Awakens" crossed the billion-dollar mark Sunday, accomplishing the feat in just 12 days. The previous movie to reach $1 billion the fastest was Universal's "Jurassic World," which did it in 13 days in June. "Jurassic World" also had the benefit of record grosses in China. "The Force Awakens" doesn't open in the world's second-largest movie market until Jan. 9.

J.J. Abrams' installment of "Star Wars" also posted the biggest Christmas Day box office in history with $49.3 million and the best second-weekend earnings with $153.5 million.

"The Force Awakens" has been setting records since its debut Dec. 17. It brought in a galactic $238 million in North America over its opening weekend, besting previous record-setter "Jurassic World," and set international opening-weekend records in Australia,

100 YEARS AGO:

Flames engulf Ocean Park pier

Editor's note: This monthly feature uncovers Santa Monica's history by compiling notable city happenings from a century ago. The stories are found in old newspaper archives.

BY JEFFREY I. GOODMAN

Daily Press Staff Writer

Authorities were working to determine the cause of a large fire that broke out on the Ocean Park pier a century ago this month.

Witnesses described "two mysterious men in a boat" close to the pier's dance pavilion before flames erupted in the early hours of Dec. 27, 1915, burning bowling alleys, a roller coaster and other attractions, according to an archived Los Angeles Times article.

The blaze, which was spurred on by a 100-gallon fuel tank, caused estimated damages of approximately $140,000 (nearly $3.3 million in 2015 money).

"Thousands of persons from neighboring places and as far away as Los Angeles rushed by automobile to watch the play of the flames," the article reads.

Santa Monica and Venice firefighters responded to the scene. Los Angeles authorities brought additional equipment and assisted with crowd control.

Ocean Park was still planning to hold its midwinter fiesta, according to the article.

WATER BOND DEFEATED

Santa Monica voters failed to pass a ballot measure approving the city's purchase of four water plants 100 years ago this month, according to a Times brief.

Supporters outnumbered opponents of the $712,500 bond (nearly $17 million in 2015 money) at the polls, but they fell a few dozen votes short of the necessary two-thirds requirement.

The measure was "hotly contested" and caused "much bickering" in the six voting precincts, according to the brief.

Before the election, the president of the state's railroad commission had urged voters to support the city's purchase of the four water systems.

"I would say unhesitatingly that in my opinion the people of Santa Monica would do well to acquire these properties," Max Thelen said, according to a Times brief.

DOUBLE DUTY?

In an attempt to save the city money, a public official named himself Santa Monica's police chief a century ago this month.

After being elected as the city's public safety commissioner, Samuel L. Berkley said he would run the police department if Ellis E. Randall was no longer interested in serving as police chief.

"I merely desire to eliminate that extra expense," Berkeley said, according to a Times brief. "If I cannot handle this work with my

BBB outreaching to explain fare increases

Case against O'Connor forwarded to County District Attorney

CHANGES COMING: There will be a meeting on Sept. 10 at the Main Library to discuss proposed fare increases at the Big Blue Bus.

BY MATTHEW HALL
Daily Press Staff Writer

Prices are going up for the Big Blue Bus and officials are building a public and local public feedback.

BBB will have a meeting from 6-7:30 p.m. at the Main Library (off Santa Monica Blvd.) to explain concerns on its proposed fare updates and service changes.

According to staff, BBB will be adding 11 percent more service over the next 12 months as part of the Evolution of Blue.

According to the staff report, the paid fare incentive program will increase the amount of fare transactions as a means of increasing efficiency. Currently, cash fares are an average of 25 percent to 30 percent higher than prepaid customers take home.

Currently, 2 percent of customers use 30-day passes, 2 percent use 15-day passes, 3 percent use day passes and 1 percent use tokens, said the staff report. "These low percentages of current prepaid fare media use are directly attributable to the

SMMEF receives $25,000 gift from Kaiser Permanente

The Santa Monica-Malibu Education Foundation (SMMEF) has received a gift of $25,000 from Kaiser Permanente to fund innovative programs at Santa Monica-Malibu public schools. With this gift, Kaiser Permanente joins SMMEF's growing Corporate Partners program.

"We are delighted to support and enhance the health and well-being of the students, staff and families in the Santa Monica-Malibu Unified School District," says Georgina Garcia, senior vice president and area manager at West Los Angeles Kaiser Foundation Health Plan & Hospitals. "We care deeply about this vibrant and engaged community, and support the Foundation's work to ensure that all students thrive and reach their full potential."

Kaiser Permanente will open a medical office in Santa Monica next spring at 10th Street and Broadway.

Like all donations to SMMEF, the gift from Kaiser will fund programs for every school in the Santa Monica-Malibu Unified School District (SMMUSD). SMMEF-funded staff and programs include arts education for the district's 4,900 elementary students, 87 instructional assistants and enrichment grants for all 16 schools in the district. In line with Kaiser Permanente's mission to encourage health, many schools use these grants to promote student health through augmented on-campus counseling, health clerks or other wellness programs. Some schools also use these grants to provide science, technology, engineering and math (STEM) or visual and performing arts programs.

"We are very thankful for Kaiser Permanente's generous contribution," SMMEF Executive Director Linda Greenberg said. "Through their donation, Kaiser Permanente is showing their commitment to healthy, vibrant schools and communities. I hope their gift is an inspiration to others to support education in our community."

For more than 33 years, SMMEF has partnered with businesses to support educational opportunities for students throughout SMMUSD, which serves more than 11,300 students and 8,000 families annually. SMMEF's Corporate Partners program is an opportunity for businesses to publically support education in the Santa Monica and Malibu community.

Local printing company working to reduce waste at U.S. Open

With the world expected to dump 2.6 trillion pounds of garbage into landfills this year, Venice-based entrepreneur Lindsey Kurowski, the owner of printing companies Knotty Pine Print and The Blocksmith, is finding innovative ways to curtail this waste. Kurowski partnered with snowboarding and apparel company Burton to reduce signage waste at the 2015 Burton U.S. Open Snowboarding Championships in Vail, Colo. Together, they diverted 2,500 pounds of garbage from local landfills and are working toward further reducing event waste for the upcoming 2016 U.S. Open in February.

The challenge Kurowski faced was the high winds, rain and snow at the outdoor event; conditions that were unfavorable for common eco-friendly signage materials. This meant flying to Vail, rolling up her sleeves and spending hours sorting through materials, cutting grommets out of all the textiles, streamlining logistics and finding organizations that recycle cotton/polyesters. Kurowski even found a third-party vendor that was able to take all materials that could not be recycled and put them into a repurpose market.

All of the plastic coroplast signage that lined the half pipes and coated canvas signage were sold to the construction market for laying concrete, lining countertops and tarp. Mesh signage was sold to the farming industry for shade; vinyl banners were sent to a third party to create bags and phone cases that will be used as promotional giveaways for the 2016 U.S. Open.

Together, Kurowski and Burton were able to recycle and repurpose much of the large-scale event's signage, diverting nine large pallets of material, weighing about 2,500 pounds, away from a landfill. For the upcoming 2016 U.S. Open, there are plans already in motion for swapping out as many materials as possible for more non-toxic fabric signage that can be recycled.

The 2015 Sammies

DRUM ROLL, PLEASE! IT'S THAT TIME of the year again. The 2015 Sammy Awards — my annual nods to what's good, bad and ugly in Santa Monica.

Development continues to be the major issue. Most projects are oversized and downright ugly. No wonder folks want "slow" or "no" growth.

City Council has voted to advance a mixed-use mega-development on our city-owned land between 4th and 5th streets along Arizona Avenue. The city-hired developer suggests a 12-floor, 148-foot structure with offices, a hotel, apartments (including 48 "affordable" units), plazas, cultural space and underground parking.

Eighty-four feet (seven floors) is too much, even for downtown. The city can't even stay within its own zoning guidelines. Why would we think any private developer would reign in the hideousness if City Hall won't do it?

There are a couple of other proposed projects that are notorious for their inappropriateness, bad design, incompatible sighting and excessive size and density.

A proposed 330,344-square-foot, 84-foot-tall, seven-floor, mixed-use complex at 500 Broadway sets new standards for distasteful, overly large development. Developer DK Broadway LLC and Koning Eizenberg Architecture share the "Aesthetically underwhelming" Sammy for this hodge-podge.

The 10-unit apartment complex at 802 Ashland Ave., on a steep hillside above the 2900 block of Lincoln Boulevard, is small compared to the usual development. Still, this project squeezes 10 apartments (thanks to housing bonuses and incentives) onto a lot zoned for four units, revealing huge shortcomings in the development process. Corner of Ashland (SM).LLC (affiliated with mega-developer the CIM Group) and Koning Eizenberg Architecture earn the "Shoehorn it in" Sammy.

The two large, ugly boxes under construction at the 5th Street and Colorado Avenue "gateway to the city" across from the new Expo light-rail terminal are new tourist hotels from OTO Development. The six-floor, 136-room Courtyard by Marriott Hotel and the six-floor, 143-room Hampton Inn & Suites by Hilton designed by Gwynne Pugh Urban Studio in the despised "Bakersfield Modern" style have earned OTO Development and its architect the "Zero taste" Sammy.

The "Urban Ugly" Sammy is shared this year by City Council, Planning Department, Planning Commission and Architectural Review Board for their parts in aiding and abetting a host of uninspiring, unattractive and traffic-generating eyesores.

But wait. The "Carbuncle of the Year" Sammy goes to Alexander Gorby, whose controversial hotel proposal designed by Howard Laks for 7th Street and Wilshire Boulevard (behind the Santa Monica Professional Building) is excessively high and dense, boring, banal, uninviting and truly loathsome.

No Sammy Awards would be complete without recognizing the planning department's transportation mis-managers. They earn the "Need more congestion" Sammy for the third year in a row for their "Safe Routes to School" fiasco next to Samohi, Bicycle Action Plan, Pedestrian Action Plan, Downtown Specific Plan and of course, LiNC — the "reimagining" of Lincoln Boulevard south of the Interstate 10 freeway. Special kudos to City Council for encouraging this crap.

City policy makers got frustrated with what they saw as foot-dragging by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) on when the city could take control of Santa Monica Airport (SMO). Turns out, it's 2023. An airport-sponsored publicity campaign #FAADoYourJob was formulated. SMO airport management earns the "Waste of time" Sammy for thinking they could pressure the FAA into speeding things up.

Another observation: when City Hall got impatient with the FAA, the complaints were long and loud. But when residents want speedy action on problems, we're ignored or stonewalled with ethics rules and endless delays. "The "Do your job, City Hall" Sammy goes to the politicians and overpaid bureaucrats who want it both ways.

The "Let's hire even more city employees" Sammy goes to City Manager Rick Cole, whose new six- to eight-employee Department of Communications is costing taxpayers $1 million annually.

State Assemblymember Richard Bloom (D-Santa Monica) sponsored two pieces of inept rule-making this year.

In California, citizens have the right to float a ballot measure for a new state law or constitutional amendment by filing a petition and a $200 filing fee. However, a bill co-authored by Bloom upped the fee to $2,000, the highest in the nation, prompting warnings that the statute limits the political clout of California citizens and makes it easier for deep-pocketed, special interest groups to dominate ballot initiatives. Gov. Jerry Brown signed it into law Sept. 1.

Another Bloom-backed bill — a tribute to nanny government — would have put a 2-cent-per-ounce tax on sodas and sugary beverages. Thankfully, it never became law. Nevertheless, Bloom easily earned the "Time to retire" Sammy.

Then, there's the "Smartest guys in the world" Sammy. It goes to SMar.t. (Santa Monica Architects for a Responsible Tomorrow), whose column appears in the weekend editions of the Daily Press. Full of good ideas, common sense and smart thinking, these guys — Thane Roberts, Mario Fonda-Bonardi, Robert H. Taylor, Ron Goldman, Daniel Jansenson, Samuel Tolkin, Armen Melkonians and Phil Brock — should be running City Hall's Planning Department. We'd be a lot better off.

The "Doctor, Doctor, gimme the news" (Robert Palmer, 1979) Sammy goes to State Senator Ben Allen, whose wise legislation repealed the "personal belief" exemption that allowed parents to refuse to vaccinate their public school children from diseases like the measles. "We need to take steps to keep our schools safe and our students healthy," Allen said. Amen.

Happy New Year, everyone. Here's hoping for a more sane 2016.

Fixing Colorado Avenue before it's too late

Dear Santa Monica Councilmembers:

Before the sidewalk gates are installed, I would like to propose turning Colorado Boulevard into a pedestrian- and bicyclist-only thoroughway from Cloverfield to 4th Street or from 17th to 4th streets. (Envision a variation of the Third Street Promenade.)

Installing gates along the sidewalks to prevent pedestrians from walking along the train track median sounds like pedestrians have to be caged and won't prevent cyclists from illegally riding on the sidewalks to avoid cycling along the seriously narrow Colorado. The gates might only corral the pedestrians onto the already narrow, unimproved sidewalks but do not protect or prevent cyclists from using the same prohibited, dangerous train track area. I am not convinced the pedestrian gates are a pedestrian safety feature. They seem more like an immediate reaction to the recent train/truck collision in the aftermath of the council's eschewing train crossing gates.

Why not limit auto traffic on Colorado, where the train shares the street surface? The train tracks have already reduced Colorado from two lanes in each direction to one lane each way. The one lane is further narrowed by street parking and makes it inherently dangerous for both autos and cyclists to share the portion of Colorado where the train tracks are at street level.

Transforming that stretch of east-west road to pedestrian- and cyclist-only could benefit the businesses by bringing more foot traffic to that area, offer the opportunity to add green space and be a calm, safe alternative for east-west pedestrian, bicycle and train travel. This project would undoubtedly be a challenge to organize, but it would be worthwhile for the long-neglected pedestrians as well as cyclists and future train passengers.

ROSE MOE

Rose Moe, teacher
Lincoln Middle School

Rose Moe became a teacher because she always loved math and enjoyed solving complex math problems "as if they were puzzles or games." When she graduated from college, she planned to become a high school teacher. But then she began teaching middle school and immediately discovered that this was an age group of students who could be truly empowered and inspired. For her first few years, she also coached track and cross-country.

Moe has been teaching in Santa Monica-Malibu Unified School District for 10 years. She's taught 6th and 7th grade math, as well as 7th and 8th grade AVID. She enjoys teaching the new California State Standards because it's challenging. She believes that the new standards will allow students to achieve their best.

"It encourages them to critically think and develop applicable strategies that they will be able to use throughout their future education and beyond," says Moe. "They will be able to connect what they are studying with the real world."

Moe speaks:

I love... my 6th grade math students this year and their eagerness to learn and adjust to middle school. I'm especially excited about teaching my 8th grade AVID class because of the growth they continue to show academically and socially. They inspire me with their determination and dedication to do well in school.

My daughters and family... inspire me every day. They enjoy and love going to school, which motivates me to do my best.

I really enjoy... working for SMMUSD and at Lincoln Middle School. I like the collaboration we share between teachers, schools, and community.

I would like my students to know... that hard work will pay off and to remember, "Not everything that can be counted counts, and not everything that counts can be counted." —Albert Einstein

New Zealand and throughout Europe. It scored the biggest worldwide debut with $529 million. It also topped $100 million in IMAX screenings in 10 days, another global record.

"You almost have to rewrite all the record books for this movie," box office analyst Paul Dergarabedian of Rentrak said. "It's absolutely mind-blowing that 'Star Wars' could get to a billion dollars in 12 days and it hasn't even opened in China, the second biggest movie market in the world."

The power of "Star Wars" meant the rest of the week's releases were competing for second place. That prize went to the Paramount comedy "Daddy's Home," which opened with $38.8 million, according to studio estimates Sunday. David O. Russell's new drama starring Jennifer Lawrence, "Joy," debuted in third place with $17.5 million.

A flurry of new films also opened in the top 10 this weekend. "Concussion," the Will Smith-NFL drama, took in $11 million, good for sixth place, followed by the financial-crisis saga "The Big Short," which collected $10.5 million. The remake of "Point Break" opened with $10.2 million. And Quentin Tarantino's latest film, "The Hateful Eight," debuted in 10th place with $4.5 million.

A juggernaut like "Star Wars" empowers the entire industry, Dergarabedian said.

"It's great for the audiences, great for studios and theater owners in particular who can point to this and say the movie theater industry is as viable and relevant as it's ever been," he said.

Estimated ticket sales for Friday through Sunday at U.S. and Canadian theaters, according to Rentrak. Where available, the latest international numbers for Friday through Sunday are also included. Final domestic figures will be released Monday.

The problems with poor-quality vinyl windows:

- Even through normal temperature changes, poor-quality vinyl windows and patio doors can expand, contract, warp and leak.
- If their seals break and the insulating gas escapes, your energy-efficiency goes out the window.

The solution is our Fibrex® window:

- We're the replacement window division of Andersen, and they developed our Fibrex material to meet their superior standards.
- Fibrex is two times stronger than vinyl and has the elegant look and feel of a wood window without the maintenance.*

ON THE EDGE: More than 600 miles of border walls and barriers have been constructed in all four southern border states, with dire consequences for vast expanses of pristine wild lands.

Border consequences

Dear EarthTalk:

How are borderlands causing widespread environmental damage while splintering families and communities across the U.S. Southwest?

Peter Jackson
Baltimore, MD

TODAY, OVER 650 MILES OF BORDER walls and barriers have been constructed in all four southern Border States: California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas. The Sierra Club Borderlands campaign has spoken up against the substantial border wall construction, arguing that it has had dire consequences for vast expanses of pristine wild lands, including wildlife refuges, wilderness areas and national forest lands, among other areas. Additionally, several species of wildlife have been observed and photographed stranded by the border wall, the group states, suggesting that many threatened and endangered species are suffering from border wall development as well.

In their short films, “Wild Versus Wall” and “Too Many Tracks,” the Sierra Club describes how the significance of the borderlands — a vast and ecologically distinct region with a multitude of mountain ranges, two of North America’s four deserts and major river ecosystems — has been ignored by current U.S. border policy. The borderlands provide important habitat for rare and threatened wildlife species, including many federally listed threatened and endangered species. But in 2005, Congress passed the REAL ID Act, which included a provision that allows the Secretary of Homeland Security to waive all local, state and federal laws, including the Endangered Species Act, deemed an impediment to building walls and roads along U.S. borders. Border patrol has now built stadium-like lights, roads and towers in sensitive, remote areas, the Sierra Club says, and the roads fragment and destroy habitat while high voltage lighting affects nocturnal animals’ ability to feed and migrate.

“Border Patrol’s off-road driving, tire dragging and ATV use in designated roadless wilderness has left an immense scar on the landscape,” said Dan Millis, borderlands program coordinator for the Grand Canyon Chapter of the Sierra Club.

The Sierra Club continues to raise awareness on borderland habitat degradation with the hope that they can combat further border wall development that may pose harm to the environment and wildlife. In a November 2015 trip to a U.S.-Mexico border wall in Bisbee, Arizona, Millis told Borderlands campaigners how the jaguar is an “emblematic species for why this wall is problematic ... It’s important for wildlife, like the jaguar, to be able to have access to a range. The jaguar used to live in the United States, all the way up to the Grand Canyon ... the jaguar’s critical habitat has been established by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and it includes areas that are bisected by these walls. And that’s really problematic if we want to see a very majestic species like the jaguar ... we’re going to have to these problems like this border wall seriously.”

Millis also informed the campaigners of several other ecological issues associated with border development, including increased erosion, flooding and soil degradation. “We’re encouraging Border Patrol and Homeland Security to keep this stuff in mind as they move forward on projects,” Millis said. “They need to do things in a way that is more sustainable.”

The change took effect Jan. 1, 1916, following Randall’s resignation.

“Under the new form of government which is to go into effect with the new year the office of Chief of Police is vested in the Commissioner of Public Safety,” Randall said, according to a Times brief.

Berkley also planned to reduce the city’s police force by three men.

Santa Monica High School did not field a basketball team in the 1915-16 season due to lack of interest, according to a Times brief.

The announcement came 100 years ago this month and followed news that Redlands High School was skipping its basketball season for the same reason.

Alhambra took Santa Monica’s place in the city section of the Los Angeles County High School Athletic League, according to the brief.

CRIME WATCH

BY DAILY PRESS STAFF

Crime Watch is culled from reports provided by the Santa Monica Police Department. These are arrests only. All parties are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ON DEC. 17 AT ABOUT 5:09 P.M.

Santa Monica police officers were dispatched to a possible vehicle burglary in the 1000 block of Broadway. The suspect was described as wearing dark clothing and having dreadlocks. When officers arrived, they saw the suspect walking away from a business with two people following. The officers asked the people if a crime had occurred, and one of them replied the suspect attempted to rob him and they were involved in a physical altercation. The officers asked the victim and witness to go back to the business where it was safe while they attempted to detain the suspect.

The suspect was looking over his back at the officers and saying he didn't want to talk. The suspect ignored the officer's commands and kept walking away. When the officers got close, the suspect turned and took an aggressive boxing-style stance and yelled at the officers. The suspect lunged towards the officers, who then deployed their taser while giving additional commands to get on the ground. The taser was ineffective, so the officers wrapped up his legs and brought him to the ground. The suspect was kicking and punching and grabbing an officer's radio microphone in an attempt escape the officers' hold. The officers gained control and placed handcuffs on the suspect.

The officers returned to the business to talk to the victim. The victim said he and his daughter were in their car backing out of the lot and were stopped to let pedestrians walk by. The suspect jumped on the trunk of the vehicle and then told the victim, "You hit me, give me some money." The victim said he was not going to give him money, then the suspect spit in the victims face, lunged at him, and then reached into the victim's pants pockets. The victim tried to walk away, but the suspect began punching him in the face. The victim was able to get away and run into the store, at which point the suspect said he was going to kill everyone.

Sudoku

Fill in the blank cells using numbers 1 to 9. Each number can appear only once in each row, column, and 3x3 block. Use logic and process of elimination to solve the puzzle. The difficulty level ranges from (easiest) to (hardest).

Difficulty Level ★

GETTING STARTED

There are many strategies to solving Sudoku. One way to begin is to examine each 3x3 grid and figure out which numbers are missing. Then, based on the other numbers in the row and column of each blank cell, find which of the missing numbers will work. Eliminating numbers will eventually lead you to the answer.

TAKE A WALK TONIGHT, TAURUS

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★★ You have been mulling over a good idea in your mind for a while. Your ability to develop a workable, dynamic solution emerges. Your idea is likely to please nearly everyone you share it with. You might be surprised by people's reactions. Tonight: Act as if there were no tomorrow.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★★ Stay anchored, and know what is needed to make you feel cared about and productive. A partner has been reticent about what he or she feels, and scarcely expresses anything but negative feedback. Follow a trusted pal's solid advice. Tonight: If you want to take a walk, do so.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★★ You have worked hard to create much more of what you need and desire. A loved one could be very difficult and cold. You might need to redefine your relationship with this person. If you do, you will come out with a more viable partnership. Tonight: Visit with a pal.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★ Make a point of handling a money matter quickly. You can't seem to get around it, nor do you really want to. Someone you look up to will act in a most unpredictable way. You might decide to rethink how much you relate to this person. Tonight: Time for indulging yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★ Your creative ability emerges. You seem to be able to transform a high-priority area of your life by making just a minor adjustment. Your ability to change and revive your day-to-day life leaves many speechless and enviousness. Tonight: Get into some new technology.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★ You might be holding back strong feelings. Others could be taken aback by what happens within a partnership or an agreement in which you are involved. Know what needs to occur for you within your immediate circle. Tonight: Spend some thoughtful time at home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★★ You could be hesitant to reach out to someone who seems cold or withdrawn. You might need to make a bigger effort to handle the unexpected in a new way. Listen to what is being shared by those whom you depend on for new insights. Tonight: Hunker down for the evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★★ You might want to have an overdue conversation with a loved one. However, uproar in a facet of your day-to-day life could take over the moment. To postpone this talk does not mean you are avoiding the situation; it means you have priorities. Tonight: Rethink an expenditure.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★★ Your fellow fire signs will get carried away with their high energy, but you'll put on the brakes. Use caution, but consider taking more risks. Try letting go, and let the fire within you blaze bright. Tonight: Surprises happen if you are heading in the right direction.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★★ You could be in the mood to explore a new alternative. Your spontaneity might floor others, kind of like an unexpected volcanic eruption. You have held back sharing your thoughts, but your actions will say what you can't seem to verbalize. Tonight: Happy at home.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★ You might be trying to move in a different direction, and quickly at that. Your ability to move on a concept in a concrete and creative way could be challenged by others. A loved one supports you in carrying out a somewhat divisive action. Tonight: Go with the unexpected.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★ Listen to news and how it overcomes a higher-up. Watch a touch of skepticism take over. You might decide to let go of your typically good judgment and go for whatever you want. You could be delighted by the freedom of following through with this. Tonight: A must happening.

Monday, December 28, 2015

This year you will make a difference if you can get past a need to stick with the tried and true. If you choose to be more in sync with the inner you, a sense of liberation will result. Other times, the comfort of the status quo encourages you to stay in your groove. The voice you decide to listen to could define this year. If you are single, don't commit until you are very sure of yourself and your feelings. You are likely to be enchanted by a new person you meet. If you are attached, the two of you decide to explore a new facet of your bond. LEO understands what is going on much more than you realize.
