THRILLIST

LA'S BEST NEW BARS & RESTAURANTS

"The team behind Ox & Son have quickly flipped that Santa Monica spot into a hyper-seasonal California-inspired spot that pays homage to proprietor Mark Verge's mother Margo and his family's five-generation history in Santa Monica. Chef Greg A. Daniels, formerly of Salt Air, is firing up small plates and shareable like hamachi crudo with sprouted lentils, lamb saddle with navy beans and fried chicken with butternut squash. To drink, you'll find craft brews, California wines and classic cocktails courtesy of Jordan Delp, who previously helmed the bar at Tom Bergin's and Dominick's."

Roll call of some of those who died in 2016

BY BERNARD MCGHEE
Associated Press

Death claimed transcendent political figures in 2016, including Cuba's revolutionary leader and Thailand's longtime king, but also took away royals of a different sort: kings of pop music, from Prince and David Bowie to George Michael.

Embracing Soviet-style communism, Fidel Castro, who died in November, overcame imprisonment and exile to become leader of Cuba and defy the power of the United States at every turn during his half-century rule. Perhaps befitting the controversial leader, his death elicited both tears and cheers across the Western Hemisphere.

However, shock, grief and nostalgia greeted the deaths of several giants of pop music. David Bowie, who broke musical boundaries through his musicianship and striking visuals; Prince, who was considered one of the most inventive and influential musicians of modern times; and George Michael, first a teenybopper heartthrob and then a mature solo artist with videos that played up his considerable appeal.

Among the political figures who died in 2016 was the world's longest reigning monarch: King Bhumibol Adulyadej, who was revered in Thailand as a demigod, a father figure and an anchor of stability through decades of upheaval.

Others in the world of public affairs included former United National Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali, U.S. Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia, ex-senator and astronaut John Glenn, former U.S. Attorney General Janet Reno, former Israeli leader Shimon Peres and former U.S. first lady Nancy Reagan.

In the sports arena, the year saw the passing of legendary boxer Muhammad Ali, whose fast fists and outspoken personality brought him fans around the world. Other sports figures included: golfer Arnold Palmer, Gordie "Mr. Hockey" Howe, basketball players Dwayne "Pearl" Washington and Nate Thurmond, Olympians Vera Caslavskaya and Tommy Kono, wrestlers Harry Fujiwara and Chyna, and mixed martial arts fighter Kimbo Slice.

Artists and entertainers who died in 2016 included author Harper Lee, conductor Pierre Boulez, musicians Leonard Cohen, Merle Haggard, Maurice White, Frank Sinatra Jr. and Phife Dawg, and actors Gene Wilder, Abe Vigoda, Florence Henderson, Carrie Fisher, Alan Rickman, Robert Vaughn, Garry Shandling, Doris Roberts, Alan Thicke, Fyvush Finkel and Anton Yelchin.

Here is a roll call of some of the people who died in 2016. (Cause of death cited for younger people, if available.)

JANUARY:

Pierre Boulez, 90. Former principal conductor of the New York Philharmonic, one of the leading figures in modern classical music. Jan. 5.

Otis Clay, 73. Hall of fame rhythm and blues artist known as much for his charitable work in Chicago as for his singing. Jan. 8.

David Bowie, 69. Other-worldly musician who broke pop and rock boundaries with his creative musicianship and a genre-spanning persona he christened Ziggy Stardust. Jan. 10.

Alan Rickman, 69. Classically-trained British stage star and sensual screen villain in the "Harry Potter" saga and other films. Jan. 14.

Glenn Frey, 67. Rock 'n' roll rebel who co-founded the Eagles and with Don Henley formed one of history's most successful songwriting teams with such hits as "Hotel California" and "Life in the Fast Lane." Jan. 18.

Abe Vigoda, 94. Actor whose leathery, sad-eyed face made him ideal for playing the over-the-hill detective Phil Fish in the 1970s TV series "Barney Miller" and the doomed Mafia soldier in "The Godfather." Jan. 26.

FEBRUARY:

Maurice White, 74. Earth, Wind & Fire founder whose horn-driven band sold more than 90 million albums. Feb. 3.

Antonin Scalia, 79. Influential conservative and most provocative member of the Supreme Court. Feb. 13.

Boutros Boutros-Ghali, 93. Egyptian diplomat who helped negotiate his country's landmark peace deal with Israel but clashed with the United States as U.N. secretary-general. Feb. 16.

Harper Lee, 89. Elusive novelist whose child's-eye view of racial injustice in a small Southern town, "To Kill a Mockingbird," became an Oscar-winning film. Feb. 19.

MARCH:

Nancy Reagan, 94. Backstage adviser and fierce protector of Ronald Reagan in his journey from actor to president — and finally during his battle with Alzheimer's disease. March 6.

Rob Ford, 46. Pugnacious, populist former mayor of Toronto whose career crashed in a drug-driven, obscenity-laced debacle. March 22. Cancer.

Phife Dawg, 45. Lyricist whose witty wordplay was a linchpin of the groundbreaking hip-hop group A Tribe Called Quest. March 22. Complications from diabetes.

Garry Shandling, 66. Actor and comedian who masterminded a brand of phony docudrama with "The Larry Sanders Show." March 24.

Patty Duke, 69. As a teen, she won an Oscar for playing Helen Keller in "The Miracle Worker," then maintained a long career while battling personal demons. March 29.

APRIL:

Merle Haggard, 79. Country giant who rose from poverty and prison to international fame through his songs about outlaws and underdogs. April 6.

Dwayne "Pearl" Washington, 52. Basketball player who went from New York City playground wonder to Big East star at Syracuse. April 20.

sive haul in Rio de Janeiro — a record-tying four golds to go along with a bronze for the dominant U.S. women's team — propelled her to stardom and rendered her last name superfluous. Now there's one more honor to add to what on Twitter is known simply as #SimoneThings: Associated Press Female Athlete of the Year.

In a vote by U.S. editors and news directors announced Monday, Biles received 31 votes out of a possible 59 votes. U.S. Olympic swimmer Katie Ledecky, who won four golds and a silver in Rio, finished second with 20 votes. Serena Williams, who won Wimbledon for the seventh time to tie Steffi Graf's record of 22 Grand Slam titles, and three-time AP women's NCAA basketball Player of the Year Breanna Stewart tied for third with four votes each.

Biles became the fifth gymnast to win the honor, joining Olga Korbut in 1972, Nadia Comaneci in 1976, Mary Lou Retton in 1984 and Gabby Douglas in 2012. It's company Biles joined while completing a run of dominance that included three straight all-around World Championships, an unprecedented run at the top in a sport where peaks are often measured in months, not years.

The teenager from Spring, Texas, hardly seemed burdened by the outsized expectations. If anything, she embraced them. She opted out of a verbal commitment to compete collegiately at UCLA to turn professional so she could cash in on the lucrative opportunities afforded an Olympic champion, a bit of a gamble considering the window is so narrow and directly tied to success at the Games.

Yet Biles seemed immune to it. At least on the outside. Inside, there were more than a few butterflies when she stepped onto the floor during team preliminaries on Aug. 7. They vanished the moment she stepped onto the green and cream colored floor at Rio Olympic Arena as she and the rest of her "Final Five" teammates — Douglas, Aly Raisman, Laurie Hernandez and Madison Kocian — put on a clinic that showcased how substantial the gap between the Americans and the rest of the world has grown.

Then again, the gulf between Biles and every other gymnast on the planet — even her good friends in red, white and blue — may be even wider.

"In prelims I did very well I kind of shocked myself," Biles said. "I came in thinking, 'I've been to three worlds.' I knew the gist of it. Once I got (prelims) out of the way, I just kind of relaxed."

What followed was a run of brilliance: a team gold as a fitting send off to retiring national team coordinator Martha Karolyi. Another in the all-around two days later, where her score of 62.198 bettered Raisman by more than two full points, the gymnastics equivalent of winning a football game by three touchdowns. A third gold came on vault, the first ever by an American woman at the Olympics and Biles' first in major international competition to fill the only hole in her increasingly peerless resume.

A bronze on beam followed thanks to a messy landing on a front flip, her only major form break in Rio. No matter, she put the exclamation point on her gold rush with a gravity-escaping floor routine that ended with Biles rushing to embrace longtime coach Aimee Boorman as their long journey to this moment ended in triumph.

The ensuing four months have been a whirlwind. Biles carried the U.S. flag at closing ceremonies, published her autobiography, took part in a post-Olympic tour with her teammates (including performing in eight shows despite a fractured rib) and hung out at the White House with the president. She remains open to giving it another shot in Tokyo in 2020. That's for later. In January she'll sit down and plot out her goals for the upcoming year. For the first time since she can remember, gymnastics won't be on the list.

It'll be weird, sure. That's not necessarily a bad thing.

"I miss training with the girls and having a good time," Biles said. "Whenever I go to the gym to visit them and I see them, I do not miss this part at all right now."

The Green Janitor Program continued to graduate local workers. The environmental education program for janitors results in a certification with workers receiving training in sustainable practices. It was designed and piloted in collaboration with Building Skills Partnership (BSP), the U.S. Green Building Council-Los Angeles Chapter (USGBCLA), the Building Owners and Managers Association of Greater Los Angeles industry experts, and building owners.

The Santa Monica City Council voted to approve an ordinance requiring all new single-family construction in the City of Santa Monica to be zero-net energy (ZNE), the first of its kind in the world. Zero-net energy is a building industry term for projects that generate enough of their own energy from renewable sources to equal what they take from the power utility over the course of a year.

A new public engagement tool was installed on the Santa Monica Pier and was the first use of virtual reality for understanding the impacts of climate change in Southern California. The freestanding viewers, named the Owl by manufacturer Owlized, Inc. offer visitors an immersive virtual reality display showing panoramic views of Santa Monica Beach. Inside the Owl, the public were able to see how the beach and infrastructure will flood due to sea level rise coupled with a large coastal storm.

Santa Monica made progress towards its water reduction/sustainability goals. Water customers cut usage enough to allow the city to temporarily suspend water imports from Los Angeles for several weeks in the early part of the year. City Hall wants to eventually eliminate the need to import any water from outside the city's own well system.

The Santa Monica City Council voted to approve an ordinance requiring rooftop solar systems for all new construction in the City of Santa Monica—both residential and commercial.

The Bay Foundation, in partnership with the City of Santa Monica, announced the Santa Monica Beach Restoration Pilot Project. This project aims to transform an approximately three-acre section of existing sandy beach into a healthy, beautiful coastal ecosystem, to address coastal hazard risks while protecting and enhancing coastal resources, such as public beach access and recreation, natural shoreline habitat, and aesthetic values.

These are the final days to get our 2016 window prices.

Our list prices will never be as low as they are right now. Call before our 2017 price increase!

With manufacturing, labor and material costs on the rise, we're forced to implement a 2017 price increase...but not before we give you one last chance to pay our 2016 prices.

Why is winter one of the best times to replace your windows?

- You'll avoid the 2017 price increase!
- The colder weather is actually one of the best times to replace your windows. Why? The wood framing surrounding your windows completely contracts and creates the largest window frame openings. Therefore, once installed, your new, custom-built windows and patio doors will have the tightest fit possible through every season. And that tight fit is what helps to keep your home comfortable.
- Our most energy-efficient SmartSun™ glass is going to help make your home more comfortable. In the hot months it helps to block the UV rays that make your home uncomfortably hot, and in the colder months it reflects the heat back into your home. And you don't have to ask for, or pay for, this extra energy efficiency; we make our SmartSun™ glass standard for all of our customers.
- We're the full-service replacement window division of Andersen, which is one of the reasons why 28,684 Southern California homeowners chose our window over a low-end vinyl window.

WELL NEWS BY SCOTT LALEE

Body of Knowledge
■ On average, the human nose cleans, warms and humidifies more than 500 cubic feet of air each day or, to couch it a different way, about the volume of 90 four-cushion sofas

Get Me That, Stat!
■ The typical American woman wants two children. To achieve this goal, according to the Guttmacher Institute, she must use birth control for about three decades. In related news, the CDC says the teen birth rate has dramatically tumbled in recent years: 50 percent in urban areas between 2007 and 2015, but just 37 percent in rural areas.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Dec. 30)

They love you. Just let them. You'll be showered with affectionate gestures through the first part of the year. School is featured prominently and life-changing relationships happen through the learning process. In April, network and cash in. September brings very successful business arrangements. Pisces and Scorpio adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 12, 14, 19, 5 and 32.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Humans consider living in the moment to be an art. Dogs find it to be a way of life. Today you'll be better off not thinking much about it, and simply riffing off of the energies around you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Create accountability, collect data and set up an organized system for doing so. After all, life is better with systems. You're already following many of them, although unconsciously, to good effect.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21)

People study to learn what you already know instinctively. You're too close to understand your own talent, but when you act naturally it will lead to outstanding results today.

CANCER (June 22-July 22)

You will be happiest in relationships that offer you challenges. You'll work for someone's attention, which makes that person all the more attractive (and attracted) to you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Freud noticed that guilt and remorse are often confused, the former stemming from aggressive wishes, the latter a form of self-punishment for the wish fulfilled. As far as today goes, both emotions are useless.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

There's someone out there who would love to double your joy and divide your grief. Perhaps this person is already in your world, only you haven't yet shared enough to know how well you fit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)

It would be nice to be left in your own little corner of the world to do your thing, but life won't let you. Getting along with difficult people will be the difference between success and failure.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21)

There will be moments of feeling lost. Love is the magic that will keep you moving toward "found" status. Connect with that kindred spirit who pushes you forward, forward, ever forward.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

Small amounts of "better" count. In fact, maybe those are the best amounts of all, because they're not too hard to create and they add up quickly. Before you know it, you're big-time better!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

You're versed in more than one language, if you count cultures as languages. You understand people of different generations. You make an effort to learn about different world-views. You'll act as a translator today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

What if you took away the operational strata? If all of the people were equal status, all the ideas equally up for investigation, all of the reality open to your interpretation: What then?

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

One changed habit will be all it takes to alter your reality. What do you grumble about most often? Give it up for the next three days and your life will change, incrementally at first, and then remarkably.

Moon Tone Shift

There's a lunar shift in the evening and a tone shift, as well. If the plan isn't going over in the early hours, and you can't seem to convince the others, sell the product or push the agenda toward any meaningful mark of progress, then back off. Relax. Settle in. The Aquarius moon is coming with a new perspective.
