Management's Discussion of Fund Performance

SUMMARY OF RESULTS

In 2025, IGME returned -24.59%, compared to a -33.82% total return for GameStop Corp. (GME) over the same period. The Fund's relative outperformance reflected the execution of its systematic covered call strategy, which is designed to monetize option premium while intentionally moderating directional exposure to a stock characterized by sentiment-driven and episodic price behavior.

The market environment during the period was marked by sharp, event-driven moves in GME's share price, while implied volatility did not remain persistently elevated. This dynamic constrained the consistency of option premium available for call overwriting, even as realized volatility periodically increased. In this context, the portfolio management team emphasized disciplined strike placement, tenor selection, and liquidity management, enabling the Fund to capture available premium and mitigate downside relative to the underlying equity without increasing exposure to abrupt sentiment reversals.

Performance data quoted represents past performance and is no guarantee of future results. Current performance may be lower or higher than the performance data quoted. Investment return and principal value will fluctuate so that an investor's shares, when redeemed, may be worth more or less than original cost. Fund Net Asset Value ("NAV") returns are calculated using the Fund's daily 4:00 p.m. NAV. Returns shown include the reinvestment of all dividends and other distributions. Index returns do not include expenses. As stated in the current prospectus, the Fund's annual operating expense ratio (net) is 0.95%. Returns less than one year are not annualized.

The S&P 500 Index is a capitalization-weighted index of 500 stocks. This index is designed to measure performance of the broad domestic economy through changes in the aggregate market value of 500 stocks representing all major industries. The index is unmanaged, its returns do not reflect any fees, expenses, or sales charges, and it is not available for direct investment.
