TH 104 COURSE INFORMATION

Course Description

TH 104 focuses on the doctrines of soteriology and ecclesiology. This course provides a detailed understanding of the Trinitarian work of salvation and the nature and function of the Church in God's kingdom plan.

Tentative Lesson Schedule:

Week 1, March 21: Soteriology
Week 2, March 28: Soteriology
Week 3, April 4: Soteriology
Week 4, April 11: Soteriology, Ecclesiology
Week 5, April 18: Ecclesiology
Week 6, April 25: Ecclesiology

Required Course Reading:

The instructor will assign a weekly page range breakdown from John MacArthur and Richard Mayhue, Biblical Doctrine: A Systematic Summary of Bible Truth (Wheaton, IL: Crossway, 2017). The entire page range governing the course material is pp. 485–659, and 739–820 a total of approximately 255 pages. Course notes are keyed to the textbook and at times use its language verbatim, with the permission of the editors.

Assignments & Exam:

Weekly assignments: Pick one section of the previous week's lecture notes to expand in your own words. Incorporate content from at least one blog or online article from trustworthy web sources such as Grace To You, The CrippleGate, Challies, Monergism, Reformation21, TableTalk (Ligonier), Pyromaniacs, Michael Horton, and others. Cite content from the online source in some obvious way, like with a quote or summary, using an inline citation following a standard format: (CrippleGate, Davis, "Reformation: Can the Roman Catholic Gospel Get You into Heaven?" 3).

Type out and submit your assignment to Google Classroom (using the link provided by the course administrator) prior to the start of the following class session. A length of 1–2 pages is preferred. Length, however, is not as important as theological clarity, which is the ability to synthesize truth without compromise or error, and the ability to effectively present it in writing.
