

This guide is meant to help define and provide examples of how the five brand colors relate to the overall look and feel of our components. These colors serve as the foundation for the theme and are used consistently across buttons, forms, navigation, and other interface elements. By editing them, you can generate a new color palette that reflects your own brand identity while keeping the design system cohesive.

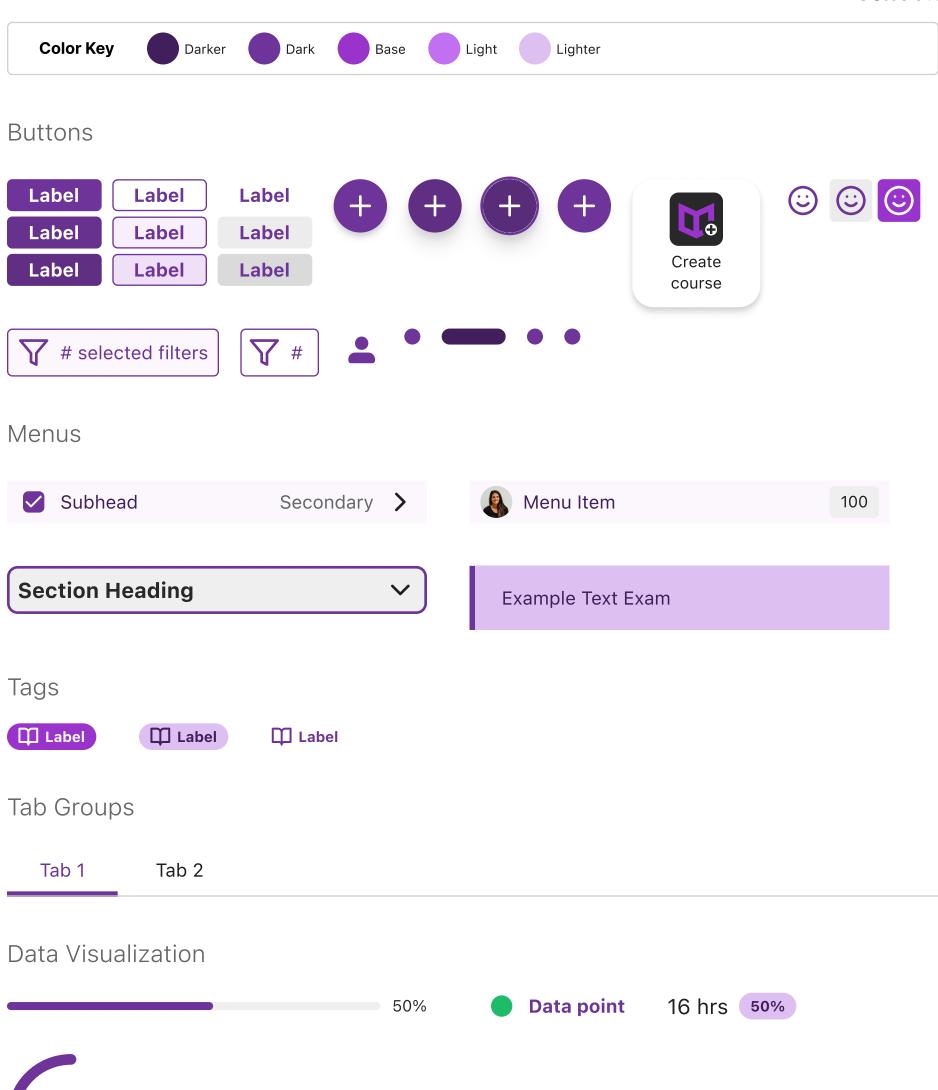

Many components use these base colors not only in their solid form, but also at varying opacities. For example, backgrounds, borders, and hover states may apply lighter or more transparent versions of the palette colors. This approach helps maintain a sense of depth, hierarchy, and visual consistency throughout the system.

The Five Colors

The theme is built on five related values of a single brand color, arranged from lightest to darkest. Together, they provide flexibility across a wide range of component needs while ensuring visual harmony.
