I hope everyone had a safe and wonderful holiday. Happy January and welcome to 2024, as we hit the ground ready to roll into what I trust to be a great year for all. Optimistic for a good winter with whatever Mother Nature throws at us while our Ag community prepares for spring planting season. Our strawberries are doing their thing to provide us with a hearty and plentiful spring. Looking forward to the fresh berries.

2023 was a good year for our agriculture community with challenges and opportunities. I am excited to see how the numbers come in, as it relates to the economic impact of agriculture in our city and community. The trends and story lines of success, growth, agritourism, planting and harvesting, all play a key role with supply and demand of agriculture products grown here in Virginia Beach.

I mentioned last year that 2023 was the Year of the Rabbit, year of hope. Well, 2024 is the Year of the Dragon. Noted to be a year of good luck, prosperous, and full of opportunities. The year to unleash your creativity, courage and confidence. This all sounds pretty good to me.

Looking ahead it is never too early to think about spring. First day of spring is March 19th and don't forget, Daylight Savings time is March 10th. Easter is early this year, on March 31st. All these dates are likely to come into play as we plan our 1st quarter of activity for this coming year.

I wish you all the best in 2024! Stay safe and healthy.

Happy New Year - 2024

Succession Planning to Keep Working Lands Working

I was fortunate to attend two recent seminars delivered by consultant Dick Wittman at the Farm Bureau Annual Convention. Mr. Wittman is a nationally recognized consultant in farm succession planning and is board chair and former manager of his family's 20,000 acre crop, cattle, and timber operation in northern Idaho. Management of the family farm has transitioned to a partnership of three other family partners and Dick was excited to tell us how they were able to make such a successful transition possible, as well as when to consider non-traditional succession plans.

First, succession planning is NOT estate planning. Second, you are not a failure if you do not have a lineal heir. Not everyone's exit plan includes immediate family. Each family's succession plan is different based on their goals and circumstances.

In a traditional succession plan, the next steps may be clear to the owners but muddier if there is more than one heir involved. This is why establishing a clear Board of Directors and organization chart for your farm operation is important. Discuss a fair and equitable succession plan when multiple players and family members are involved, with clear job descriptions and expectations. Call on outside experts as needed for financial planning and unbiased opinions on how best to meet your business objectives. There may be family members with talents and skills you haven't even considered that want to contribute to the family business. Utilize their skills and add them to your board or advisory committee. They can bring value to your operation.

Non-traditional succession plans have many driving factors. There may be no lineal heir, or the heirs have other careers or lack the critical talent for management. There are other economic and human barriers to entry such as development pressure making land unaffordable to farm or more enticing to sell; or a need for more diverse talents to achieve excellence on the farm.

There are many options of transitioning into your succession plan. Locally we have seen several new young farm families emerge on the scene. These are just the folks that may be ripe for mentorship, expansion, or partnerships in your operations, and they typically bring the marketing and tech skills that some mature farmers may be needing. Utilizing buy-in and partnership arrangements over time is one way to transition your succession plan outside of the family. Similarly, a lease to own arrangement or long-term lease with heirs still owning the property is one method of succession that preserves your family farm while keeping lands in production. Transitioning long-time employees into owners is yet another way to develop a strong succession plan. Workers that own a stake in any business have more of a vested interest in ensuring its success.

The biggest take away from Mr. Wittman's seminar was the importance of setting up professional business governance processes no matter how big or small you are. This clears up so many issues. The basics include a Board of Directors, organizational chart, mission, core values, goals and objectives, and a strategic plan. Mr. Wittman has a checklist of about 36 items including financial management proficiencies, marketing, risk management and human resources. If you are interested in his checklist or further information, feel free to contact me at jhillegass@vbgov.com.

Everything You Ever Wanted to Know About the Farmers Market but were Afraid to Ask!

The Farmers Market, located on the corner of Princess Anne and Dam Neck Road, has been in operation with the Agriculture Department for the City of Virginia Beach for 47 years. 15 merchants rent year-round, a Butcher, Baker, Creamery, Fishmonger, County Grill, four (4) Produce Shops, four (4) Gift Shops, a Florist and Plant Store.

Eight (8) special events are held yearly with approximately 90 vendors who sell their unique creations from jewelry to woodworking, baked goods, pet treats/accessories, crochet and knitted items, all kinds of artwork and more. With food trucks and music, these events bring in upwards of 2,000 visitors per event. We have done a variety of special events since The Farmers Market was built in 1976. These annual craft shows have been established for over a decade.

Special Events are:

March – Celebrate Agriculture

April – Birthday Bash

May – Strawberry Jamboree

June – Honey Festival

Sept. – Apple Extravaganza

Oct. – Harvest Fair

Nov. – Fall Festival

Dec. – Santa's Workshop

Vendors sell their crafts most weekends and during the week when the weather is nice, either under our pavilion or under their tents in the center circle parking lot.

Our Friday night Hoedowns are a local favorite every Friday 7 pm -10 pm featuring a different Country – Bluegrass – Pop band from April through the end of October.

Our beautiful seasonal gardens throughout the grounds are created and tended to by the volunteer Virginia Beach Master Gardeners. The two (2) main gardens are behind the Rural Heritage Center, where we host Fun on the Farm Field Trips for pre K – 5th grade students from all over the 757.

Farmers Market Staff - Ken Thoms, Kristi Michael, Brenna Smith and Jenny McPherson with "Beachy" the cow.

In the Fall, our back parking lot is filled with every color and size pumpkin/gourd.

By the end of November, our front grass area becomes a winter wonderland full of Christmas Trees for sale.

Also, behind the scenes, the staff is very busy with day to day operations.

Jenny McPherson, Rural Community Coordinator, as one of her many responsibilities oversees the staff of the Farmers Market. Her main office is in the Agriculture Department that is located in Building 14 at the Municipal Center.

Ken Thoms, Market Supervisor, is responsible for all financial and legal aspects and oversees everyday functions of the Farmers Market, ensuring everything runs smoothly.

Program Educator, Kristi Michael, creates and delivers agricultural educational tours for Pre-K through 5th grade. She promotes tours to Public, Private and Home Schools, Church groups etc., and coordinates volunteers to help with field trips. Our largest volunteer resource is the Virginia Beach Master Gardeners. Kristi also creates content for social media and manages our Facebook page @VB Farmers Market.

Our Office Assistant, Brenna Smith covers Saturday and Sundays, where she manages vendors who come to sell their crafts. She prepares our weekly deposits and credit card reconciliations and assists with School Tours as needed.

We all work as a team, sharing responsibilities at the market to ensure the best experience for our visitors.

2024

A Mindset Shift for 2024 and Beyond

At the beginning of each year, many individuals make New Year's resolutions to lose weight, eat better, exercise more regularly, take more time to relax, spend extra time with family and friends, or work on their finances to get them under control and get out of debt. However, after a couple of months, the New Year's resolutions begin to fade from being a relevant part of their daily lives, and many return to their old way of doing things. Have you ever thought why your good intentions for the year soon disappear? According to the National Institutes of Health (NIH) – Department of Health and Human Services habits are built on positive or negative experiences which become a routine part of our lives without thinking about the behavior. The good news according to NIH is that individuals can change their behavior when they practice simple Mindfulness strategies each day which becomes an automatic behavior in their lives. This could be the year that the behaviors and goals you longed for could happen both in your mental and physical life. It does not take grit or “trying harder”, it takes a mindset shift. Virginia Cooperative Extension offers two programs that could help you find a deeper meaning in life and learn how to balance your social, physical, and professional life so you are able to stay motivated and achieve your goals and dreams.

Dr. Samantha Harden, Associate Professor, and Exercise Extension Specialist, and her physical activity team offer a weekly interactive webinar entitled “Mindful Meet-Ups”. Each Monday from 12:00 to 12:30 p.m. there will be different strategies to rejuvenate your mind, body, and soul. Mindful Meet-Ups 30-minute webinars will create an inclusive, accessible, and practical place to experience what moment-to-moment awareness, movement, breathwork, and community can do for your emotional well-being. The webinars are designed to help individuals rejuvenate and revitalize their emotional well-being. No equipment or experience is necessary. To register for the webinars please visit the site at HVHEmindfulmeetup.

Dr. Crystal Tyler-Mackey, Community Viability Extension Specialist, and her Human Development Program Team have developed 30-minute weekly webinars to equip adults with tools and skills to navigate through some of life's challenges called "Balancing Life". Balancing Life has become a platform to present information about a wide variety of topics that address the needs for overall wellness whether mental, financial, health, stress management, parenting, or personal resilience. Each Friday from 10:00 to 10:30 a.m. there is a different guest speaker with expertise to be both informative and inspirational.

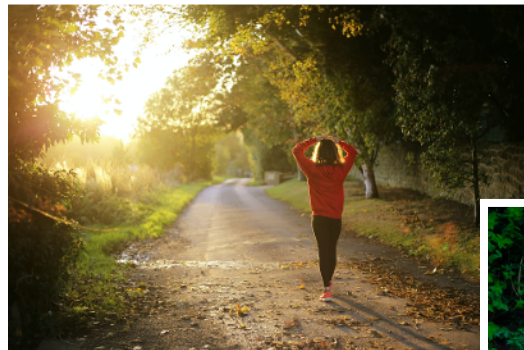

To register for the webinar please complete a short form at <https://forms.gle/HqBrBE3psUGnfwLv7>.

Both of these insightful programs are free and open to the public.

You will be able to start your week on Mondays with Mindful Meet-Ups and end your week on Fridays with Balancing Your Life. Both programs will provide you with strategies to find a deeper meaning in your life and help you to make positive changes during 2024 and beyond.

January 2024 New Year Edition

Welcome 2024!!!

Happy New Year!! Let's start the year with a few GREAT reasons to join 4-H and get involved with us.

4-H Capital Day

2024 4-H Day at the Capital will be held on Wednesday, January 24, 2024 at the Virginia Capital in Richmond, Virginia.

Virginia's largest Civic Engagement event is happening January 24, 2024. 4-H youth from all across Virginia will converge on our capitol to engage with legislators and observe democracy in action.

We currently have seats available for youth on our sprinter transport, and room for 1-2 adult volunteers. If you'd like your child to attend with us, you need to RSVP by January 10, 2024. Parents are welcome to drive their children up and join us, but still need RSVP.

All interested families and individuals need to RSVP using this link. <http://tinyurl.com/yjt2pywf>

If you have any questions, please call our office at 757-385-4769.

4-H Embryology

One of the cutest projects we do all year. Educators from all over the city have an opportunity to participate. The 4-H Embryology Project teaches students about the life cycle of a chicken from embryo to hatching, students will observe the formation of life.

In addition to tracking the development of the chick, students will learn about the structure and chemistry of an egg. Some schools will also host an egg drop, using store-bought eggs of course, to bring an engineering and design component to this unit.

Teachers must complete an in-person training in order to participate. RSVP for this training can be done at the following link. <http://tinyurl.com/5x68ut9c>

Virginia Beach 4-H Ham Project 2024

It's back again!! And we couldn't be happier about it. Sponsored by Smithfield Foods, youth and families learn a time-honored Virginia tradition of dry curing and smoking a fresh Smithfield ham to create their own Virginia Country Ham. With few old-fashioned country meat artisans left, this project ensures the tradition will live on in our youth and young families.

Hippology is a knowledge-based contest where youth demonstrate their knowledge of horse breeds, conformity, structure, parts, and origins.

According to the Virginia Agricultural Commodity Board, the equine industry is a $2 Billion industry in Virginia and generates more than 38,874 jobs. Youth participation in this club could be the next equine industry greats. And it all starts with their involvement in a 4-H Horse Club.
